Several Negroes Arc Taken to Hospital With Cuts.

Hospital With Cuts.

The city ambulance was called to Twenty-second and Main Streets last night to attend a nearo named Edgar Gay. He was stabbed twice in the back and was hurried to the hepital, where an examination proved his wounds not to be serious. The man did not seem to know or, at least, would not tell, the name of the person who cut him.

Another negro, William Winton, was cut on the hee at Seventh and Clay Streets. He was taken to the City Home, where four stitches were put in his head. The names of the two men who did the cutting were given to the Second Police Station as Leslie Gwathiney and Thomas Nelson. They have not yet been arrested.

ON RATE BILL SOON

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 28.—The generally expressed opinion about the Sonate is that an agreement to vote on the railroad bill will be secured early next week by common consent the vote is fixed rate bill will be secured early next week and by common consent the vote is fixed for some time during the week beginning May 7th. The reasons given for predicting an early vote are that the debate is practically exhausted and that there is strong pressure from the House of Representatives, whose members are anxious to bring the session to an end in order that they may have opportunity to give attention to their campaigns for received.

Berry & Co. is Ruined.

The large delivery automobile of O. H.
Berry & Co. was badly wrecked last night at about 9:30 o'clock in a collision.
At the corner of Eighth and Grace the large machine and passing street car smashed together. Several people were on the car, and were badly frightened.
The automobile, with its chaufeur, was hurled to one side, and completely ruined.
The collision brought the car to a standstill almost immediately. Nobody was hurt to any appreciable amount; and the driver of the automobile was lucky to escape more scared than injured. The street car singularly received hardly a scratch, and went on its way again without having to put up at the car barn.

UNABLE TO LOCATE HARVARD INSTRUCTOR

(By Associated Press.)

CAMERIDGE, MASS. April 28.—Up to a late hour to-night the Cambridge police had received no reliable information concerning the whereabouts of Erich Muenter, the German Instructor of Harvard University, who is wanted in connection with the death of his wife. The police conferred with Judge Charles J. Almy, of the Municipal Court, to-day, regarding the issuance of a warrant at this time, but the police say there will be no difficulty in getting one when it is needed. At Harvard University nearly all those who knew the instructor refuse to entertain the theory that he deliberately murdered his wife.

Making Light From Refuse.

Making Light From Reiuse, It is curious how far afield some will travel for news which might be gathered at home. On Monday "The Dilly Graphie" published, on the authority of "an American consular report from Frankfort," a description of a plant genetic received at Zurch for disposing of the city's refuse by burning and "utilizing the heat engendered to manufacture electicity." "Engendered" is a good word. A peculiarity attending the publication of such far-fetched statements as this is that they are always industriously col-A peculiarity attending the publication of such far-fetched statements as this is that they are always industricistly collected by wiseners who afterward use the information as a text on which to hang the usual distribe against British backwardness in "scientific" ways of working. Why Zurich should be cited, when examples of steam raising refuse distructors galore could be adduced from the United Kingdom, it is hard to guess, for there is nothing special in the plant described, which is of a type that originated in this country. So far from being movel, the system is, unfortunately, only too well known to many local authorities in England, who have learned that this sort of economy frequently comes expensive in practice.

There was a time, which quickly passed, when managers of corportion gus works were moved to try what could be done in the way of making gas from towns' refuse. Fortunately, the idea was so hopeless that it was soon abandoned. It is different, however, with steam driven electric lighting installations. Ordinary dry dustbin refuse burns readily with forced draught, and in properly proportioned furnaces will make its weight of water into steam at 100 pounds' pressure. This fact is enough to set the "Wilfan-

This fact is grough to set the "Utilization of waste fuel" doctrinaire agog, and accordingly a variety of installation have been laid down, regardless of captul cost, for converting garbage into electric light plant only being needed for a few hours daily involves the necessity of making provision for burning the dust fuel within the same period, which means that the furnace portion of the plant has to be four or five times the capacity it need be if worked continuously. This is one way of keeping electricity dear or the rates high; but since it is very "selentific," there is no more to be said. Gas companies need not complain of the proceeding, from a business point of view, although, as ratepayers, they may entertain doubts as to its justice.—The Gas world.

A Rebuke From Richmond.

A Keduke From Kichmond.

Mr. Stanhope Bolling, of Richmond, in a recent letter to the New York Evening Post takes that paper severely to take for the trend of its comment relative to the Springfield (Mo.) lynching. "Mean and contemptible" is the language he used in characterizing the inference which he says is deducible from the Post's criticism, that the citizens of the town in question were influenced in bringing on a disgraceful state of rioting by reason of the infusion of Southern blood in their veins. The Post replies by disclaiming the intendment attributed to its remarks, and says; "We have as little excuse for Springfield, O., as for Springfield, Mo." In the further course of his communication, Mr. Boiling says that for the crime which generally brings on these disturbances both white and colored men should be lynched, "only because after ruining a poor innocent girl's life a jack-leg lawyer would brow-heat and humiliate ner in court, if for this crime the brute were brought to trial. In the anxiety of such men as wrote your editorial to belittle the South, I have never known one snaple one of them to say a word of sympathy for the ruined and more often murdered girl or her relatives." Concerning the foregoing portion of Mr. Bolling's letter, the Post's is silent-and much to our displantment. We would have read with no little interest its views with reference in the particular phase of the question as presented by its Richmond correspondent,—Lynchburg News.

Mine Coal.

In addition to the San Francisco disaster can it stand the further disaster of a coal strike? It ought no to be obliged to, it is computed that the strike of four years ago cost the miners and the coal companies and the miners and the merchants of the mining section and the business enterprises directly affected $160,000.000.

The mining business is greater than it was then, and there is more general business to be affected, and a stubborn struggle like that of 1902 could not cost less, and would probably cost more. The business of the country can't stand such a loss following the loss in San Francisco. The other States cannot help California adequately if coal mining is to be stopped for several months, and manufacturing and transportation he disarforms adequately and forms and manufacturing and transportation be disarranged and the people compelled to pay famine prices for fuel.

This is the time for the operators and the miners to get together. They must be able and willing to reach an agreement, resume work and relieve a stricken country from the suffering that a coal strike would entail. Mon of capital and men of labor, carthquake and fire are unpreventable, but a coal strike can be prevented, and the country appeals to you to avert this, threatened disaster.—Philadelphila Record.

We are informed that the New York Association for the Billind is now fairly organized, is incorporated, and is ready to carry on its beneficent work as thoroughly as contributions will permit. The prime object of this association is effectively to aid the billind, so far as practicable, to support themselves. For this purpose, it provides a system of instruction at night and at the homes of those helped a workshop for men engaged especially in broom-making, chair canning, etc.; a census and employment bureau to keen tracks of the billind and to aid them in getting work, and, in addition, such effort as in practicable to prevent billindness, often due to neglect in the first stages of eve disease. The association is in the hands of highly intelligent and experienced men and women, who can be relied on to make excellent use of any funds intrusted to their care. There is a considerable and definite field for the labor they have undertaken, which is of a peculiarly satisfactory and sensible sort, Both as to the saving to the community made by enabling those to sustain themselves who cherwise would be a charge on the public, and as to the estimable kindness to the sufferer themselves in relieving the gloom of a significant of the contributions in extremely appending. It is said that the Japanese are an Ingenious race, but it appears to the occidental mind that there are limits to this bonsted lugenuity. An entomologist in a New York college tells of a case where a trusted Japanese assistant failed him in a moment where singular ingenuity was required. The scientist had a tray of carefully arranged and minute specimens and was carrying it from one table to another, when he stimbled on a protruding chair leg and parity fell, scattering the specimens over the floor. Many hours of work were in a second quite undone. Some serviceable and hard-worked expletive must have leaped to his lips and then proved inadecuate to the occasion, for, after a pregnant moment of slience, he turned to the Japanese and said:

"Tell me quick what would you say in Japanese if such a tring happened to you? Give me the transiation instantly."

"Ah," said the Japanese scientist, with calm gravity, "we would address the chair and say, You are very impolite."—The Reader.
